INVESTMENT FUNDS

ESSENCE AND NATURE

OF INVESTMENT FUNDS

The task of the fund managers is to invest the money paid into the fund in such a way as to achieve the highest possible returns for the fund's investors, while at the same time limiting the investment risk.

WHAT IS AN INVESTMENT FUND

Only an investment fund established in accordance with the Law on Investment Funds and Management of alternative investment funds of May 27 2004 (Journal of Laws of 2020 No. 95, as amended), has the right and obligation to use the name "investment fund".

Income of Closed-End Investment Funds is subject to an exemption from income tax, with the exception of income that has its source in tax transparent companies.

Investment funds are legal entities, they can be established in perpetuity or for a limited period of time.

The primary objective of the investment policy is to develop the highest possible returns with limited risk through diversification of deposits.

The funds enjoy privileges available only to institutional investors.

POOLING OF RESOURCES

An investment fund is a form of collective investment - this means that its assets are created by pooling the funds of individual investors (i.e., participants). Investments made by investors are converted into titles of participation (shares or investment certificates)*.

BENEFITS FROM INVESTING IN FUNDS

CHOICE OF STRATEGY

Thanks to the variety of investment funds, investor decides by himself what level of risk he is able to accept.

Numerous closed-end investment funds focus on investments in deposits, that are expected to yield returns over the long term, and by design are less sensitive to business cycles.

BENEFITS FROM INVESTING IN FUNDS

INVESTMENT POLICY

The type of investment fund determines the degree of flexibility of the investment policy.

- Closed-end investment funds and specialized open-end investment funds that are using Closed-end investment funds policy, have the ability to pursue a more relaxed investment policy than open-end investment funds and traditional specialized open-end investment funds.
- This is reflected in the fund's broader catalog of permissible deposits. For example, a closed-end investment fund, in addition to standard deposits, can invest in receivables, shares of limited liability companies, real estate, or commodity derivatives. These investments are often subject to high risk and low liquidity, but they offer potentially higher returns.
- Closed-end investments funds possess greater permissible investment limits, in terms of the percentage of the fund's total Assets.

CLOSED-END INVESTMENT FUNDS

MOST FLEXIBLE

The possibility of diversifying the investment policy of a closed-end fund, the range of vested rights for certificate holders, status of securities and many other aspects, make closed-end investment funds most attractive for investors.

CLOSED-END INVESTMENT FUND -
THE MOST ELASTIC INVESTMENT FUND

INVESTOR BENEFITS

A dedicated closed-end fund offers the Investor the benefits reserved for funds, while not limiting operating activities of the companies

- The investor, through the Board of Directors or the Management Company, fully manages the operational activities of the companies in the closed-end investment fund's portfolio. The Fund Company does not manage these companies.
- The investment certificate represents the investor's property rights and is a security.
- Income from investment in the fund's investment certificates is taxed only when it is realized by the investor (redemption/sale of certificates, payment of dividends from the fund).
- investment certificates of a closed-end investment fund may be pledged as collateral, both as ordinary and registered collateral as well as fiscal collateral.
